Case No.: 3:25-cv-03226-JLS-AHG

PETITIONER'S TRAVERSE
SUPPORTING PETITION FOR WRIT OF HABEAS CORPUS

Petitioner replies to Respondents' Return as follows:

A. Petitioner's Habeas Claims Are Not Barred by 8 U.S.C. § 1252

Section 1252 does not apply to bar jurisdiction because this action concerns Petitioner's unlawful detention. The Respondents contend Petitioner is subject to the mandatory detention provisions of Section 1225(b)(2), and that ICE had authority to re-detain the Petitioner.

In this petition, Petitioner does not make any claim or cause of action arising from any decision to commence or adjudicate removal proceedings or execute removal orders. Petitioner does not dispute the commencement or any other aspect of his removal proceedings nor does he have a removal order. In short, Petitioner challenges nothing related to his removal proceedings – he challenges the Respondents' re-detention and revocation of his conditional parole. Therefore, the jurisdictional bar under 8 U.S.C. § 1252(g) does not apply here.

The government's contention that 8 U.S.C. § 1252(b)(9) bars jurisdiction of this Court is similarly unavailing. Petitioner is not seeking “[j]udicial review of all questions of law and fact . . . arising from any action taken or proceeding brought to remove an alien from the U.S.. Again, the Petitioner is not challenging anything with respect to his removal proceedings – he is challenging his unlawful detention. As previously stated, the Petitioner cannot be seeking judicial review of a final order of removal, as he does not have a removal order. Petitioner's removal proceedings continue to be pending in immigration court. See the

1 EOIR Online Case Information System corresponding to Petitioner's Agency Number, 2 accessible at: <https://acis.eoir.justice.gov/en/caseInformation>.

3 In short, this action concerns the unlawful detention of the Petitioner and the Supreme 4 Court and Ninth Circuit have rejected Respondents' contention that § 1252(g) covers all 5 claims arising from deportation proceedings or imposes a general jurisdictional limitation.
6 See Dep't of Homeland Sec. v. Regents of the Univ. of Cal., 591 U.S. 1, 19, 140 S. Ct. 1891, 7 207 L. Ed. 2d 353 (2020); see also Arce v. United States, 899 F.3d 796, 800 (9th Cir. 2018) 8 ("[W]e have limited [§ 1252(g)]'s jurisdiction-stripping power to actions challenging the 9 Attorney General's discretionary decisions to initiate proceedings, adjudicate cases, and 10 execute removal orders.")

11 12 B. Petitioner is Not Subject to Mandatory Detention

13 As discussed in detail in the Petition, the Petitioner is not lawfully detained under § 14 1225(b)(2) as alleged by Respondents.

15 First, Petitioner is not an arriving alien "seeking admission" and he is not in expedited 16 removal proceedings. The Ninth Circuit in Torres v. Barr, 976 F.3d 918 (9th Cir. 2020) (en 17 banc) held that the phrase "application for admission" refers to the specific point in time 18 when a noncitizen submits an application to physically enter the United States. It is not a 19 perpetual status. Although Petitioner may have been seeking admission on September 18, 20 2022, when he had arrived in the U.S. and apprehended at the border, he was released into 21 the country shortly thereafter. Over three years later, he is no longer "seeking admission"; he 22 is physically present and challenging his detention pending removal proceedings. United 23

1 States v. Gambino-Ruiz, 91 F.4th 981, 989-990 (9th Cir. 2024). As such, the mandatory 2 detention provisions of Section 1225(b)(2) do not apply.

3 Since the filing of the Petition in this matter, the Central District of California has 4 issued Maldonado Bautista v. Noem, No. 5:25-cv-01873-SSS-BFM (C.D. Cal. November 5 20, 2025) echoing the numerous other district courts in stating that those noncitizens 6 apprehended inside the U.S. – like the Petitioner – are subject to Section 1226(a), and not 7 Section 1225(b). In Maldonado Bautista, the Court stated that the “Respondents endorse an 8 interpretation of § 1225 that effectively removes § 1226 from existence.” Id. at 15. “If the 9 Court were to accept Respondents’ position that all noncitizens already in the country 10 (regardless of whether they were inspected and authorized by an immigration officer) were 11 ‘applicants for admission,’ then there would be no possible set of noncitizens to which § 12 1226(a) would apply.” Id.

14 Furthermore, the Respondents’ Return does not address why the Order of Release 15 Under Own Recognizance with respect to Petitioner’s release in 2022 specifically states that 16 the release is under Section 1226, yet the Petitioner is now suddenly subject to Section 17 1225’s mandatory detention provisions. In short, the Respondents’ position that Petitioner is 18 subject to 1225(b)(2) defies both the plain language of the statute, decades of practice by 19 Respondents as well as Ninth Circuit and Supreme Court precedent.

20 C. Petitioner’s Parole Revocation and Subsequent Re-Detention Violates Due 21 Process

22 The Respondents’ Return erroneously claims ICE has absolute authority to revoke a 23 custody determination at any time. Specifically, Respondents contend that “while some

1 courts have recognized due process limitations on the authority of the government to revoke 2 parole depending on the facts of the case, to imply into existence a broad bar on any release 3 revocation by ICE—assigning that authority instead strictly to immigration courts—is 4 inconsistent with the statutory scheme.” (See Docket 5, p. 14 lines 19-22.)

5 Numerous courts have, however, determined ICE’s authority to revoke conditional 6 parole is constrained by the due process clause – including the Supreme Court in Morrissey 7 v. Brewer, 408 U.S. 471, 480-82 (1972) (a parolee’s liberty involves significant values 8 within the protection of the Due Process Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment) and the 9 Ninth Circuit in Hernandez v. Sessions, 872 F.3d 976, 981 (9th Cir. 2017) (“the 10 government’s discretion to incarcerate non-citizens is always constrained by the 11 requirements of due process”). The guidance of the BIA provided by Matter of Sugay, 17
12 I&N Dec. 647 (BIA 1981)—that ICE should not re-arrest a noncitizen absent changed 13 circumstances—is insufficient to protect Petitioner’s weighty interest in his freedom from 14 detention.

15 In accordance with the Supreme Court and Ninth Circuit, federal district courts in 16 California have also repeatedly recognized that the demands of due process and the 17 limitations on DHS’s authority to revoke a noncitizen’s bond or parole set out in DHS’s 18 stated practice and Matter of Sugay both require a pre-deprivation hearing for a noncitizen 19 on bond, like Petitioner, before ICE re-detains him. See, e.g., Ortega v. Bonnar, 415 F. Supp.
20 3d 963 (N.D. Cal. 2019); Vargas v. Jennings, No. 20-CV-5785-PJH, 2020 WL 5074312, at 21 *3 (N.D. Cal. Aug. 23, 2020); Jorge M. F. v. Wilkinson, No. 21-CV-01434-JST, 2021 WL 22 783561, at *2 (N.D. Cal. Mar. 1, 2021).

1 But “even when ICE has the initial discretion to detain or release a noncitizen pending 2 removal proceedings, after that individual is released from custody she has a protected 3 liberty interest in remaining out of custody.” Pinchi v. Noem, 792 F. Supp. 3d 1025, 1032
4 (N.D. Cal. 2025) (citing Romero v. Kaiser, Case No. 22-cv-02508-TSH, 2022 WL 1443250, 5 at *2 (N.D. Cal. May 6, 2022) (“[T]his Court joins other courts . . . facing facts similar to the 6 present case and finds Petitioner raised serious questions going to the merits of his claim that 7 due process requires a hearing before an IJ prior to re-detention.”)); see Padilla v. U.S. ICE, 8 704 F. Supp. 3d 1163, 1172 (W.D. Wash. 2023) (“The Supreme Court has consistently held 9 that non-punitive detention violates the Constitution unless it is strictly limited, and, 10 typically, accompanied by a prompt individualized hearing before a neutral decisionmaker to 11 ensure that the imprisonment serves the government’s legitimate goals.”)

12 Petitioner’s re-arrest and the revocation of his release on conditional parole without a 13 pre-deprivation hearing violate the Due Process Clause. The Due Process Clause prohibits 14 deprivations of life, liberty, and property without due process of law. U.S. Const. amend. V.
15 “[T]he Due Process Clause applies to all ‘persons’ within the United States, including 16 [noncitizens], whether their presence here is lawful, unlawful, temporary, or permanent.”
17 Zadvydas v. Davis, 533 U.S. 678, 693 (2001). Courts analyze procedural due process claims 18 such as this one in two steps: the first asks whether there exists a protected liberty interest 19 under the Due Process Clause, and the second examines the procedures necessary to ensure 20 any deprivation of that protected liberty interest accords with the Constitution. See Kentucky 21 Dep’t of Corrections v. Thompson, 490 U.S. 454, 460 (1989).

22 To determine which procedures are constitutionally sufficient to satisfy the Due 23

1 Process Clause, Courts apply the three-part test established in Mathews v. Eldridge, 424 U.S.
2 319 (1976). The Court must consider: (1) “the private interest that will be affected by the 3 official action;” (2) the “risk of an erroneous deprivation of such interest through the 4 procedures used, and the probable value, if any, of additional or substitute procedural 5 safeguards;” and (3) “the Government’s interest including the function involved and the 6 fiscal and administrative burdens that the additional or substitute procedural requirement 7 would entail.” Id. at 335.

8 All three factors support a finding that Respondents’ revocation of Petitioner’s 9 conditional parole release without an opportunity to be heard deprived Petitioner of his due 10 process rights. First, Petitioner has a significant liberty interest in remaining out of custody 11 pursuant to his conditional parole. For three years preceding his re-detention on September 12 18, 2022, Petitioner exercised that freedom under an immigration officer’s decision to 13 granting him conditional parole after a determination that he presented neither a flight risk 14 nor a danger to the community. In the three years following his release, Petitioner has 15 married a U.S. citizen and has established extensive community ties.

16 Although Petitioner was released on conditional parole (and thus under government 17 custody), he retained a weighty liberty interest under the Due Process Clause of the Fifth 18 Amendment in avoiding re-incarceration. See Young v. Harper, 520 U.S. 143, 146-47 19 (1997); Gagnon v. Scarpelli, 411 U.S. 778, 781-82 (1973); Morrissey v. Brewer, 408 U.S.
20 471, 482-483 (1972). “Even individuals who face significant constraints on their liberty or 21 over whose liberty the government wields significant discretion retain a protected interest in 22 their liberty.” Pinchi, 792 F. Supp. 3d at 1032. Although the initial decision to detain or 23

1 release an individual may be within the government’s discretion, “the government’s decision 2 to release an individual from custody creates ‘an implicit promise,’ upon which that 3 individual may rely, that their liberty ‘will be revoked only if [they] fail[] to live up to the . .
4 . conditions of release.’” Id. (quoting Morrissey v. Brewer, 408 U.S. 471, 482 (1972)); see 5 also Zadvydas, 533 U.S. at 690 (“Freedom from imprisonment—from government custody, 6 detention, or other forms of physical restraint—lies at the heart of the liberty [the Due 7 Process Clause] protects.”); Morrissey, 408 U.S. at 482 (“Subject to the conditions of his 8 parole, he can be gainfully employed and is free to be with family and friends and to form 9 the other enduring attachments of normal life.”); Oliveros v. Kaiser, No. 25-CV-07117-
10 BLF, 2025 WL 2677125, at *7 (N.D. Cal. Sept. 18, 2025)

11 “Second, the risk of an erroneous deprivation of such interest is high as Petitioner’s 12 parole was revoked without . . . giving [him] an opportunity to be heard.” Gonzalez Salazar 13 v. Casey, Case No.: 25-CV-2784 JLS (VET), 2025 WL 3063629, at *4 (S.D. Cal. Nov. 3, 14 2025); see also Singh v. Andrews, No. 1:25-cv-00801-KES-SKO (HC), 2025 WL 1918679, 15 at *7 (E.D. Cal. July 11, 2025) (finding where, as here, Petitioner “has not received any bond 16 or custody redetermination hearing,” the “risk of an erroneous deprivation of liberty is 17 high”). “Civil immigration detention is permissible only to prevent flight or protect against 18 danger to the community.” Pinchi, 792 F. Supp. 3d at 1035 (citing Zadvydas, 533 U.S. at 19 690).

20 Here, there is no evidence that Petitioner’s detention would serve either purpose.
21 “Since DHS’s initial determination that Petitioner should be paroled because [he] posed no 22 danger to the community and was not a flight risk, there is no evidence that these findings 23

1 have changed.” Gonzales Salazar, 2025 WL 3063629, at *3 (citing Saravia v. Sessions, 280 2 F. Supp. 3d 1168, 1176 (N.D. Cal. 2017) (“Release reflects a determination by the 3 government that the noncitizen is not a danger to the community or a flight risk.”). See 4 Ledesma Gonzalez v. Bostock, 2025 WL 2841574, at *1, 8 (granting habeas petition and 5 ordering bond hearing where ICE re-detained the petitioner the day after an immigration 6 judge denied the petitioner’s application for asylum).

7 Third, Respondents’ interest in detaining Petitioner without a hearing is low. See 8 Ortega v. Bonnar, 415 F. Supp. 3d 963, 970 (N.D. Cal. 2019) (“If the government wishes to 9 re-arrest [the petitioner] at any point, it has the power to take steps toward doing so; but its 10 interest in doing so without a hearing is low.”); Pinchi, 792 F. Supp. 3d at 1036 (“Detention 11 for its own sake, to meet an administrative quota, or because the government has not yet 12 established constitutionally required pre-detention procedures is not a legitimate government 13 interest.”). “Therefore, because Respondents detained Petitioner by revoking [his] parole in 14 violation of the Due Process Clause, [his] detention is unlawful.” Gonzalez Salazar, at *5.
15 See also, Doe v. Becerra, 2:25-cv-00647, (E.D. Cal. 2025); Rodriguez-Flores v. F. Semaia et 16 al., No. CV 25-6900 JGB (JCX), 2025 WL 2684181 (C.D. Cal. Aug. 14, 2025).

17 Based on the Mathews factors, due process requires Petitioner to be released from 18 custody and receive a bond hearing before an IJ before he can be re-detained.

19 D. The Appropriate Remedy for Respondents’ Violation of the Law is Immediate 20 Release

21 Respondents contend that release is improper and the proper remedy would be 22 directing a bond hearing under Section 1226(a). But this argument “misapprehend[s] the 23 purpose of a pre-detention hearing: if Petitioner is detained, he will already have suffered the

1 injury he is now seeking to avoid.” Jorge M.F. v. Jennings, 534 F. Supp. 3d 1050, 1055 2 (N.D. Cal. 2021); see also E.A. T.-B. v. Wamsley, --- F. Supp. 3d ---, 2025 WL 2402130, at 3 *6 (W.D. Wash. 2025) (“Although the Government notes that Petitioner may request a bond 4 hearing while detained, such a post-deprivation hearing cannot serve as an adequate 5 procedural safeguard because it is after the fact and cannot prevent an erroneous deprivation 6 of liberty.”); Domingo v. Kaiser, Case No. 25-cv-05893, 2025 WL 1940179, at *3 (N.D. Cal.
7 July 14, 2025) (“Even if Petitioner[] received a prompt post-detention bond hearing under 8 8 U.S.C. § 1226(a) and was released at that point, he will have already suffered the harm that 9 is the subject of his motion; that is, his potentially erroneous detention.”).

10 This is not a case of someone who entered without inspection but was never 11 previously detained. As affirmed recently by the Central District of California, the remedy 12 for that class of non-citizens is a bond hearing. Maldonado Bautista v. Noem, No. 5:25-cv-13 01873-SSS-BFM (C.D. Cal. November 20, 2025). This case concerns the class of non-14 citizens who entered without inspection, were detained shortly after entry, were then 15 released, but then later re-detained. In other words, this is a re-detention case involving the 16 due process violation of the Petitioner not being provided with a hearing prior to being re-17 detained. As such, the appropriate remedy for such a violation is immediate release.

18 Courts in this district have joined a growing chorus of district courts that have 19 recognized that noncitizens have a significant liberty interest in both “continued freedom 20 after release on own recognizance,” and have ordered release. Alegria Palma v. Larose, No.
21 25-cv-1942-BJC-MMP, ECF No. 14, at *6 (S.D. Cal. Aug. 11, 2025) (emphasis added), and 22 in “freedom from imprisonment” after “the government grants a [noncitizen] parole into the country,” Sanchez v. LaRose, No. 25-CV-2396-JESMMP, 2025 WL 2770629, at *3 (S.D. Cal. Sept. 26, 2025) (emphasis added). See also Prieto-Cordova, No. 25-cv-2824-CAB-DDL, 2025 WL 3228953 (S.D. Cal. Nov. 19, 2025); Faizyan v. Casey, No. 25-cv-02884-RBM-JLB, 2025 WL 3208844 (S.D. Cal. Nov. 17, 2025); Sayed Naser Noor v. Christopher LaRose, et al., No. 25-CV- 1824-GPC-MSB, 2025 WL 2800149, at *14 (S.D. Cal. Oct. 1, 2025) (explaining that a petitioner is no longer an “arriving” noncitizen after release by Respondents, including when a courtroom arrest occurs while INA section 240 proceedings remain ongoing); N.A. v. LaRose et. al. Case No.: 25-cv-2384-RSH-BLM (S.D. Cal. Oct. 7, 2025); Ramazan M. v. Andrews, No. 25-cv-01356-KES-SKO (HC), 2025 WL 3145562 (E.D. Cal. Nov. 20, 2025); Gomez Vilela v. Robbins, No. 25-cv-01393-KES-HBK (HC), 2025 WL 3101334 (E.D. Cal. Nov. 6, 2025); Pablo Sequen v. Albarran, No. 25-cv-06487-PCP, 2025 WL 2935630 (N.D. Cal. Oct. 15, 2025); Hyppolite v. Noem, No. 24-cv-4304 (NRM), 2025 WL 2829511 (E.D. N.Y. Oct. 6, 2025); Lopez-Arevelo v. Ripa, No. EP-25-CV-337-KC, 2025 WL 2691828 (W.D. Tex. Sept. 22, 2025); Ramirez Tesara v. Wamsley, No. 25-cv-01723-MJPTLF, 2025 WL 2637663 (W.D. Wash. Sept. 12, 2025); E.A. T.-B. v. Wamsley, No. C25-1192-KKE, 2025 WL 2402130 (W.D. Wash. Aug. 19, 2025)..

Just recently, this Court ordered the immediate release of a noncitizen re-detained without the required notice or hearing. Sanchez Avalos v. Noem, No. 3:25-cv-02906-CAB-VET (S.D. Cal. November 24, 2025). The noncitizen in Sanchez Avalos v. Noem – like the Petitioner – was re-detained without due process after having previously been detained and

1 released on his own recognizance. As such, immediate release (and not a bond hearing) is 2 also the appropriate remedy here.
