CIVIL CASE NO.: 26-CV-

'26CV3132 TWR GC

Petition
for a
Writ of Habeas Corpus

INTRODUCTION

This petition arises from a sudden change in the way that the Board of Immigration Appeals interprets 8 U.S.C. §§ 1225, 1226. “For decades, and across administrations, DHS has acknowledged that § 1226(a) applies to individuals who entered the United States unlawfully, but who were later apprehended within the borders of the United States long after their entry.” Rodriguez v. Bostock, 779 F. Supp. 3d 1239, 1260 (W.D. Wash. 2025) (quoting Petitioner’s brief and noting that Respondents had not contested that claim). But in Matter of Yajure Hurtado, 29 I. & N. Dec. 216 (BIA 2025), the Board of Immigration Appeals (“BIA”) accepted the government’s new position that inadmissible immigrants are not eligible for bond under § 1226(a), even if they have been living in the United States for years or decades. Instead, the BIA held that all inadmissible immigrants are subject to the mandatory detention provisions in 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2)(A).

Courts do not agree. The government has lost this argument in districts across the United States, see, e.g., Rodriguez, 779 F. Supp. 3d at 1260; Romero v. Hyde, 2025 WL 2403827 (D. Mass. Aug. 19, 2025); Martinez v. Hyde, 2025 WL 2084238 (D. Mass. July 24, 2025); Lopez Benitez v. Francis, 2025 WL 2371588 (S.D.N.Y. Aug. 13, 2025); Leal-Hernandez v. Noem, 2025 WL 2430025 (D. Md. Aug. 24, 2025); Kostak v. Trump, 2025 WL 2472136 (W.D. La. Aug. 27, 2025); Lopez-Campos v. Raycroft, 2025 WL 2496379 (E.D. Mich. Aug. 29, 2025); Carmona-Lorenzo v. Trump, No. 4:25CV3172, 2025 WL 2531521, at *5 (D. Neb. Sept. 3, 2025); Zaragoza Mosqueda v. Noem, 2025 WL 2591530, at *7 (C.D. Cal. Sept. 8, 2025); Hernandez Nieves v. Kaiser, 2025 WL 2533110 (N.D. Cal. Sept. 3, 2025); Rosado v. Figueroa, 2025 WL 2337099 (D. Ariz. Aug. 11, 2025), including this one, see Vasquez Garcia v. Noem, 2025 WL 2549431 (S.D. Cal. Sept. 3, 2025) (Sabraw, J.). This Court should reject that argument, too, and order Petitioner’s immediate release on the bond imposed by the immigration judge (“IJ”)

1 STATEMENT OF FACTS

2 Hector Alejandro Vega Vazquez (Hector) is a 19-year-old Mexican citizen
3 actively pursuing immigration relief in San Diego, California who has no criminal 4 history whatsoever. Exh. A, Declaration of Hector Alejandro Vega Vazquez.
5 Hector has been complying as best he can with his Intensive Supervision
6 Appearance Program (ISAP), for which he wears an ankle monitor, accepts home
7 visits, and reports to the ISAP office in-person whenever directed to do so. Id. The 8 U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement detained Hector on May 19, 2026, 9 after he appeared for his most recent ISAP appointment. Id.

10 Detention is a serious hardship for Hector and his growing family. Hector
11 just became a father to his newborn United States Citizen daughter on April 22, 12 2026. The baby's mother, Hector's girlfriend, is still recovering from the birth.
13 Hector is their primary caretaker during this tender period and his absence is 14 causing the new young mother undue strain and worry. Id.

15 LEGAL BACKGROUND

16 I. In Yajure Hurtado, the BIA stripped most noncitizens who enter 17 without inspection of the right to seek bond.

18 This habeas petition turns on the BIA's recent decision in Yajure Hurtado.
19 The issue in Yajure Hurtado revolves around two statutes, 8 U.S.C. § 1226(a) and 20 8 U.S.C. § 1225(b)(2)(A).

21 "Section 1226(a) provides for the arrest and detention of noncitizens
22 'pending a decision on whether the alien is to be removed from the United States.'" Hernandez Nieves, 2025 WL 2533110, at *3. It instructs that the Attorney General 23 "may continue to detain" arrestees or "may release [them] on bond of at least $1,500
24 with security approved by, and containing conditions prescribed by, the Attorney
25 General." 8 U.S.C. § 1226(a) (punctuation altered). "Federal regulations" 26 implementing this statute "provide that aliens detained under § 1226(a) receive 27 bond hearings at the outset of detention." Jennings v. Rodriguez, 583 U.S. 281, 306
28

1 (2018) (citing 8 C.F.R. § 1236.1(d)(1)).

2 Section 1225(b)(2)(A) provides that “in the case of an alien who is an 3 applicant for admission, if the examining immigration officer determines that an 4 alien seeking admission is not clearly and beyond a doubt entitled to be admitted,
5 the alien shall be detained for” certain immigration proceedings. 8 U.S.C.
6 § 1225(b)(2)(A). Federal regulations do not prescribe bond hearings for people
7 detained under that section. Instead, “DHS has the sole discretion to temporarily
8 release on parole ‘any alien applying for admission to the United States’ on a ‘case-
9 by-case basis for urgent humanitarian reasons or significant public benefit.”
10 Hernandez Nieves, 2025 WL 2533110, at *3 (quoting 8 U.S.C. § 1182(d)(5)(A)).

11 By their terms, these statutes apply to different groups of immigrants.
12 “Section 1226(a) sets out the default rule,” which governs unless some other, more
13 specific detention provision overrides it. Rodriguez 779 F. Supp. 3d at 1246
14 (cleaned up). Section 1225(b)(2)(A) is more specific, but it applies only to an 15 “applicant for admission” who is also an “alien seeking admission.” 8 U.S.C.
16 § 1225(b)(2)(A).

17 Yajure Hurtado considered which of these provisions—the default rule in 18 § 1226(a) or the mandatory detention provision in § 1225(b)(2)(A)—applies to 19 immigrants who enter the United States without inspection but live for years in the 20 country’s interior. 29 I.&N. Dec. at 216. The respondent in Yajure Hurtado had 21 entered without inspection in November 2022, before obtaining Temporary 22 Protected Status (“TPS”). Id. at 216–17. He was arrested after his TPS expired in 23 April 2025. Id. An immigration judge (“IJ”) ruled that he was subject to mandatory
24 detention under § 1225(b)(2)(A). Id. at 217.

25 On appeal to the BIA, the respondent conceded that he was an “applicant for 26 admission” in the meaning of § 1225(b)(2)(A), id. at 221, because he had not been 27 legally “admitted”—that is, he had not effected a “lawful entry . . . into the United 28 States after inspection and authorization by an immigration officer.” 8 U.S.C.

1 § 1101(a)(13)(A). But he argued that he did not fall within § 1225(b)(2)(A)’s ambit
2 because he was not actively “seeking admission” at the border. 29 I&N Dec. at 221.
3 He had crossed the border and proceeded to the country’s interior years ago. Id.

4 The BIA disagreed, holding that only noncitizens who were legally admitted
5 retain bond eligibility. Id. at 218, 223. The BIA gave three reasons to support that 6 conclusion.

7 First, the BIA rejected the distinction between immigrants who are 8 “applicants for admission” and those who are “seeking admission.” In the BIA’s 9 view, that distinction would leave people like Mr. Yajure Hurtado without any 10 “legal status” and would create a line-drawing problem. Id. at 221.

11 Second, the BIA rejected the argument that interpreting § 1225(b)(2) to cover
12 noncitizens like Mr. Yajure Hurtado renders superfluous much of § 1226(c).
13 Instead, it asserted without explanation that limiting the reach of § 1225(b)(2)
14 would render that provision superfluous. Id. at 221–22.

15 Third, the BIA claimed that the legislative history supported its construction 16 of § 1225, because in enacting IIRIRA, Congress sought to remedy the inequity of 17 the prior statutory scheme, which provided greater procedural and substantive 18 rights to noncitizens who entered without inspection (and were placed in 19 deportation proceedings) than those who presented themselves to authorities for 20 inspection (and were placed in exclusion proceedings). Id. at 223–25. But the BIA 21 did not cite any legislative history specifically addressing detention statutes or 22 custody determinations that would support its interpretation. Id.

23 For these reasons, the BIA concluded that noncitizens who enter without 24 inspection have no right to seek bond from an IJ, regardless of how long they have 25 been residing in the country and irrespective of whether they were apprehended by 26 immigration authorities. Id. at 228.

27 Although the Central District of California vacated Matter of Yajure
28 Hurtado, on March 6, 2026, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals stayed the district

1 court's judgment and order such that Matter of Yajure Hurtado still controls in the 2 Southern District of California. Maldonado Bautista v. DHS, Case No. 26-1044
3 (9th Cir. March 6, 2026)

4 II. Courts disagree with the BIA's reasoning.

5 Since Yajure Hurtado was decided, many immigrants who otherwise would 6 have received bond hearings under § 1226(a) have challenged that decision in the 7 federal courts. Courts broadly agree that the BIA's novel constructions of 8 § 1225(b)(2)(A) and § 1226(a) are not correct.

9 On the one hand, § 1225(b)(2)(A) is best read to apply to immigrants who 10 are at or near the border or other ports of entry, for at least three reasons.

11 First, § 1225(b)(2)(A)'s statutory context strongly suggests that it applies
12 only to persons apprehended at or near the border. As the Supreme Court 13 recognized in Jennings, § 1225(b) is concerned "primarily [with those] seeking 14 entry," and is generally imposed "at the Nation's borders and ports of entry, where 15 the Government must determine whether [a noncitizen] seeking to enter the country 16 is admissible." 583 U.S. at 297, 287. Throughout its text, the statute refers to 17 "inspections"—a term not defined in the INA but which typically connotes an 18 examination upon or soon after physical entry. 8 U.S.C. § 1225 ("Inspection by 19 immigration officers; expedited removal of inadmissible arriving [noncitizens]; 20 referral for hearing"); id. § 1225(b)(1)–(2) (referring to "inspections" in their titles);
21 id. § 1225(d)(1) (authorizing immigration officials to search certain conveyances 22 in order to conduct "inspections" where noncitizens "are being brought into the 23 United States"). Many statutory provisions, various regulations, and BIA precedent 24 discuss "inspection" in the context of admission processes at ports of entry, further 25 supporting the conclusion that § 1225 has a limited temporal and geographic scope.
26 8 U.S.C. § 1187(h)(2)(B)(i); 8 U.S.C. § 1225a; 8 U.S.C. § 1752a; 8 C.F.R. § 235.1;
27 Matter of Quilantan, 25 I&N Dec. 285 (BIA 2010). Petitioner's interpretation
28 accords

1 Second, consistent with the statute’s overall focus on the moment of physical 2 entry, § 1225(b)(2)’s plain language limits the statute’s reach to persons actively 3 attempting to enter the United States. The statute applies only to those who are both
4 “applicants for admission” and in the process of “seeking admission.” 8 U.S.C.
5 § 1225(b)(2)(A). Because the statute’s first clause already limits the provision to 6 “applicants for admission,” the phrase “seeking admission” must have a different
7 meaning. Any other reading would constitute “an obvious violation of the rule
8 against surplusage.” Romero, 2025 WL 2403827, at *10.

9 On its face, the phrase “seeking admission” suggests an active attempt to 10 enter the country. Congress’s use of the present and present progressive tenses 11 “necessarily requires some sort of present-tense action,” excluding noncitizens in 12 the interior who are no longer in the process of seeking admission to the U.S.
13 Romero, 2025 WL 2403827, at *9 (cleaned up); accord Rosado, 2025 WL
14 2337099, at *11 (similar); Lopez Benitez, 2025 WL 2371588, at *6 (noting the 15 statute’s “present-tense active language”). “Realistically speaking,” it is hard to 16 accept that the statute’s plain language could mean anything else: “[I]f Congress’s 17 intention” to detain everyone who entered without inspection “was so clear, why 18 did it take thirty years to notice?” Romero, 2025 WL 2403827, at *12.

19 Third, the statutory history supports a limited reading of § 1225(b)’s reach.
20 When Congress amended § 1225(b)’s predecessor statute—which authorized 21 detention only of arriving noncitizens—to include individuals who had not been 22 admitted, legislators expressed concerns about recent arrivals to the United States
23 who lacked the documents to remain in the country. H.R. Rep. No. 104-469, pt. 1, 24 at 157–58, 228–29 (1996); H.R. Rep. No. 104-828, at 209 (1996) (Conf. Rep.).
25 There was no suggestion in the legislative history that Congress intended to subject
26 all people present in the United States after an unlawful entry to mandatory 27 detention and thereby transform immigration detention and sweep millions of 28 noncitizens into § 1225(b).

1 The BIA’s contrary reading of the legislative history is not persuasive. True,
2 IIRIRA “altered the typology of immigration proceedings to ‘place[] on equal
3 footing’ ‘all immigrants who have not been lawfully admitted.’” Romero, 2025 WL
4 2403827, at *12 (emphasis added) (quoting Torres v. Barr, 976 F.3d 918, 928 (9th
5 Cir. 2020)). But that “says nothing about detention pending the outcome of those 6 proceedings.” Id. (emphasis added). All these indicators suggest that 7 § 1225(b)(2)(A) applies only to recent arrivals at the border or ports of entry, not 8 people who have already entered the country.

9 On the other hand, § 1226(a) is best read to apply to some inadmissible
10 persons. It cannot plausibly be the case that all inadmissible persons fall under 11 § 1225(b)(2)(A) and none fall under § 1226(a).

12 First, § 1226(a)’s statutory structure makes clear that it reaches some 13 individuals who have not been admitted and have entered without inspection.
14 Section 1226(c) exempts specific categories of noncitizens from the default
15 eligibility to seek release on bond in § 1226(a). “Among the individuals carved out 16 and subject to mandatory detention are certain categories of ‘inadmissible’
17 noncitizens.” Rodriguez, 779 F. Supp. 3d at 1246 (quoting 8 § 1226(c)(1)(A), (D), 18 (E)). The 2025 Laken Riley Act (“LRA”) added to that list. “This ‘new’ category” 19 of persons not eligible for bond “includes those noncitizens who are deemed 20 inadmissible, including for being ‘present in the United States without being 21 admitted or paroled,’ and who have been arrested, charged with, or convicted of 22 certain crimes.” Rosado, 2025 WL 2337099, at *9 (citing 8 U.S.C. § 1226(c)(1)(E); 23 LRA, Pub. L. No. 119-1). If § 1226(a) did not apply to inadmissible noncitizens, 24 then the longstanding carve outs that refer to inadmissibility and Congress’ most 25 recent amendments would all be surplusage. See Garcia, 2025 WL 2549431, at *6.
26 The better reading is the Supreme Court’s in Jennings: that § 1226(a) “applies to 27 aliens already present in the United States.” 583 U.S. at 303.

28 Second, § 1226(a)’s legislative history supports Petitioner’s reading. “After

1 passing the IIRIRA, Congress declared the new § 1226(a) ‘restates the current
 2 provisions in [the predecessor statute] regarding the authority of the Attorney
 3 General to arrest, detain, and release on bond’ a noncitizen ‘who is not lawfully in 4 the United States.’” Rosado, 2025 WL 2337099, at *9. Because noncitizens deemed 5 inadmissible “were entitled to discretionary detention under § 1226(a)’s 6 predecessor statute, and Congress declared the statute’s scope unchanged by 7 IIRIRA,” § 1226(a) must “allow for a discretionary release on bond for”
 8 inadmissible noncitizens, too. Id.

9 Thus, the best reading of 8 U.S.C. §§ 1225, 1226 shows that petitioner is 10 eligible for bond. And under the Supreme Court’s recent decision in Loper Bright 11 v. Raimondo, this Court must independently interpret the meaning and scope of 12 §§ 1225(b), 1226(a) using the traditional tools of statutory construction. 603 U.S.
 13 369, 385, 401 (2024); see also Rodriguez, 779 F. Supp. 3d at 1251; Kostak, 2025
 14 WL 2472136, at *2 n.29; Gomes v. Hyde, No. 1:25-CV-11571-JEK, 2025 WL
 15 1869299, at *8 n.9 (D. Mass. July 7, 2025). Because the BIA’s decision in Yajure
 16 Hurtado is a deviation from the agency’s long-standing interpretation of §§ 1225,
 17 1226; is not guidance issued contemporaneously with enactment of the relevant 18 statutes; and contradicts the statutory interpretations of dozens of federal courts, 19 this Court should give it no weight. If anything, the government’s “decades of 20 practice” providing bond hearings to those who entered without inspection is a 21 more persuasive guide to the proper outcome here. Martinez, 2025 WL 2084238, 22 at *4.

23 III. Because an appeal to the BIA would be futile and Hector faces 24 irreparable harm, exhaustion is not required.

25 Petitioners raising this argument need not exhaust remedies by appealing a
 26 denial of bond to the BIA. “Here, no statute requires exhaustion.” Romero, 2025
 27 WL 2403827, at *5. Rather, “exhaustion here is a prudential requirement.” Garcia, 28 2025 WL 2549431, at *4. “[A] court may waive the prudential exhaustion

1 requirement if . . . pursuit of administrative remedies would be a futile gesture.”
2 Hernandez v. Sessions, 872 F.3d 976, 988 (9th Cir. 2017) (cleaned up). “Here,
3 exhausting administrative remedies would be futile because all ICE employees
4 have been directed by DHS’ and DOJ’s new policy to consider anyone arrested in 5 the United States and charged with being inadmissible under § 1182(a)(6)(A)(i) to 6 be an ‘applicant for admission’ under § 1225(b)(2)(A) and therefore be subject to 7 mandatory detention.” Garcia, 2025 WL 2549431, at *5 (cleaned up). This habeas 8 petition can therefore proceed.

9 IV. Either Outright Release and No Re-Detention Absent a Pre-Detention
10 Bond Hearing or, in the Alternative, a Bond Hearing and/or Release if a
11 Bond Hearing is Not Held Within Five Days Are Proper Remedies/

12 The Court has two options for remedies in this case. Under one option, the 13 Court should order outright release of Hector without re-detention absent a pre-
14 detention bond hearing. See Lepe v. Andrews, No. 1:25-CV-01163-KES-SKO
15 (HC), 2025 WL 2716910, at *10 (E.D. Cal. Sept. 23, 2025) and see Hernandez
16 Nieves v. Kaiser, No. 25-CV-06921-LB, 2025 WL 2533110, at *5 (N.D. Cal. Sept.
17 3, 2025).

18 In the alternative, the Court should order a bond hearing before the IJ and/or 19 release if there is no bond hearing within a certain time frame set by the Court. See
20 Mosqueda v. Noem, No. 5:25-CV-02304 CAS (BFM), 2025 WL 2591530, at *7
21 (C.D. Cal. Sept. 8, 2025) (“Respondents are enjoined from continuing to detain 22 petitioners unless they are provided with an individualized bond hearing before an 23 immigration judge pursuant to 8 U.S.C. § 1226(a) within seven (7) days of this 24 Order”); Lopez-Campos v. Raycraft, No. 2:25-CV-12486, 2025 WL 2496379, at 25 *10 (E.D. Mich. Aug. 29, 2025) (“Writ of Habeas Corpus (ECF No. 1) is 26 GRANTED. Respondents are HEREBY ORDERED to immediately release Lopez-
27 Campos, or in the alternative, provide him with a bond hearing under 8 U.S.C. §
28 1226(a) within seven (7) days of the date of this Order”).

CLAIMS AND PRAYER FOR RELIEF

Detaining Petitioner Without a Bond Hearing Violates 8 U.S.C. § 1226(a), Associated Regulations, the Administrative Procedures Act, and the Fifth Amendment Right to Due Process.

For the reasons just given, Petitioner may be detained, if at all, pursuant to 8 U.S.C. § 1226(a). Both the statute and its associated regulations entitle Petitioner to a bond hearing. See 8 C.F.R. §§ 326.1(d), 1236.1, 1003.19(a)-(f). Accordingly, the Fifth Amendment’s due process clause requires the government to provide the legally required bond hearing before Petitioner is detained. See Hernandez-Lara v. Lyons, 10 F.4th 19, 27 (1st Cir. 2021).

The statute and regulations implement the due process protection that attends any civil detention. See Rodriguez v. Marin, 909 F.3d 252, 256 (9th Cir. 2018) (expressing “grave doubts that any statute that allows for arbitrary prolonged detention without any process is constitutional or that those who founded our democracy precisely to protect against the government’s arbitrary deprivation of liberty would have thought so”). The Supreme Court has “repeatedly recognized that civil commitment for any purpose constitutes a significant deprivation of liberty that requires due process protection,” including an individualized detention hearing. Addington v. Texas, 441 U.S. 418, 425 (1979); see also United States v. Salerno, 481 U.S. 739, 755 (1987); Foucha v. Louisiana, 504 U.S. 71, 81–83 (1992); Kansas v. Hendricks, 521 U.S. 346, 357 (1997).

Here, Petitioner would have been eligible for release on bond under § 1226(a), but for the BIA’s recent decision in Yajure Hurtado.

Accordingly, Petitioner respectfully requests that this Court:

1. Order the Respondents to immediately release Petitioner from custody under the condition that Respondents cannot re-detain him absent a pre-detention bond hearing;

2. Order, in the alternative, a bond hearing before the IJ and release from detention immediately if a bond hearing is not held within a certain time frame set by the Court; and
3. Order all other relief that the Court deems just and proper.

Respectfully submitted,

Dated: May 19, 2026
